Chelsea Island is an exclusive collection of 89 high-end apartments in the heart of Chelsea's designer hub. The new scheme introduces a collection of one, two, three and four bedroom apartments, private rooftop gardens, and landscaped public realm at the gateway to Chelsea Harbour – an area fast-becoming one of London's most sought-after riverside addresses.

The development, by residential specialist Hadley Property Group, sets a new benchmark for luxury in the area and introduces homes that showcase the very best of apartment living, combined with the highest standards in craftsmanship and attention to detail.

Designed by innovative architecture firm Arney Fender Katsaldis, the Chelsea Island development comprises two joined buildings that rise 11-stories in height, with the angled architectural form providing a strong sense of place against the existing landscape. Most apartments at Chelsea Island will also have access to generous balconies, with 20 apartments featuring private terraces.

With balconies looking back towards the city's iconic landmarks, allowing uninterrupted views along the changing face of London's waterside, the AB Composite Decking Black was chosen as the preferred board to compliment the floor to ceiling windows and balcony fascias.

"Having worked with AB Building Products on numerous projects over the last few years, we were sure we had again made the right decision in choosing the correct product and company for this high-end project."
